Pledged to neither Sect nor Party,
But established for the benefit of all.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 26, 1889.

It has been common remark that there was nothing but "the Shah" in the English papers during that dusky monarch's visit to England. There was evidently a purpose in all the fuss made on that occasion, which the following item in a late London paper partly indicates: "The Exchange Telegraph Company is informed on high authority that the Shah has consented to an important agreement in regard to the passage of British troops through Persian territory."

An English judge, Baron Martin, when recently pronouncing sentence on a prisoner convicted of murder, said: "The evidence was about the clearest and the most direct that, after a long course of experience in the administration of justice, I have ever known. I am as satisfied as I can be of anything that Gregorio did not inflict the wound, and that you were the person that did." Yet, a writer in a London paper says, "a few days afterwards Gregorio confessed to the act and was ultimately sentenced to five years' penal servitude." A jurymen who has read the papers and formed an opinion, therefore been ruled out of the panel, might have arrived at a correct judgment where the regulation jury and this judge egregiously failed.

THE PASSPORT SYSTEM.

This journal has often contended that our passport system, by which a person is compelled to procure a permit from the government before he can legally leave the country, and the levying of a tax of two dollars per individual upon all persons landing here, are both injurious to the country's interest. The contention is here again reiterated, supported by an incident in point as regards the two dollars tax. Some six or eight of the through passengers by the steamship Alameda, on her last trip from the colonies, conceived the intention before reaching Honolulu of stopping over here for a week and then proceeding by the Australia. This intention had been formed on the voyage through information acquired on board relative to these islands. Later on, when these passengers were advised that they would have to pay two dollars apiece before landing, they kicked like steers and decided to go on with the Alameda. All explanations regarding the object of the tax had no effect upon them. The amount to be paid was no consideration, but they objected on principle, considering it an imposition, and thus the country lost the benefit that would have accrued to it from the expenditure consequent on a week's sojourn of six or eight well-to-do people. It is to be hoped that the next Legislature will be composed of gentlemen sufficiently progressive to rescind the illiberal enactment which compels people to pay an entrance fee into the country and another for permission to go out of it.

THE AMENDMENT.

It is admitted, on the part of the petitioners for calling the Legislature, that there is room for argument as to the advisability of such action. But it is impossible to understand why the planting interest is opposed to a constitutional amendment of the kind proposed. Statutory restriction of Chinese immigration is being fairly carried out, but, if that is to be the only resource of the classes suffering from Chinese competition in trade and industry, the time must come when it will clash directly with the labor requirements of planters. The amendment to the Constitution asked for comes in with a proposition to find relief in measures that will not conflict with planting interests. These measures cannot be gained without constitutional amendment, as the Supreme Court reports already amply prove. Several prominent planters have conceded the reasonableness of the agitation and given the benefit of their counsel toward devising means for effecting the object. Throughout the present movement of the working people of Honolulu, the opposition through the press, where only the proposition has been opposed publicly, has been completely divested of all argument pertaining to the real question.

There has been plenty of talk on the matter of Chinese exclusion which is not up for discussion at all, and upon the liability of doing injustice to Chinese now having interests here which is not contemplated but emphatically disavowed by the movers. Mr. Horner, a planter, affects impartiality and something like magnanimity in his remarks on the agitation, but really attempts the unkindest cut of all. When he says this movement will be followed by a similar one against the Portuguese, he is stating an absurdity with a motive so apparent as to cause astonishment that a man of his calibre should imagine it capable of concealment. The only opposition to Portuguese has come from the planters' side on account of their comparative expensiveness as labor, with perhaps some from natives because Portuguese show an eagerness to be landholders. Business and working men, however, know that whenever a Portuguese gets ahead in trade or mechanical skill, he becomes so ambitious for position in reputable society as to bring him out of the ranks of competitors on unequal terms with other nationalities.

AIMLESS AGITATION.

Notwithstanding the authoritative denial of the rumor about an American protectorate, it is said that the native mass meeting to protest against such a measure will take place all the same. Without saying anything against free speech, it is impossible to commend anything in the nature of clamor without a definite purpose. If this meeting has been called to denounce a protectorate, and there is no protectorate to be denounced, then there is no sense in bringing the people together to listen to lurid oratory on other subjects. It is suspected that the wire-pullers are attempting to swing the advertised meeting into line against the agitation in behalf of a Chinese restriction amendment to the Constitution. If the Chinese merchants be deceived by any sympathy they obtain from such a source, then they are less shrewd than they are generally credited with being. But they will probably see that a gathering diverted from another purpose to pay them flattering attentions must be engineered by a group of politicians with no higher object in view than to cajole them into providing the "sins of war" for the elections. When that purpose is accomplished the squeezed Chinese oranges will be thrown aside. Any agitation of the public mind without a clearly defined object presented to the eye of the people is liable to do harm. Of course the agitators in such movements have objects clear enough to themselves. They want to pose as great patriots. They yearn after the buzz of unthinking people. They seek the preferments in the gift of the masses. To reach their ends they will sacrifice discretion to declamation, and substitute platitudes for principles. It is to be hoped that in the short time left sensible people having influence with the Hawaiians will dissuade as many of them as possible from countenancing the attempt to stir the multitude under disguised auspices. True, it has been suggested that the meeting might as well take place to give a marked expression of Hawaiian opinion in regard to the question of a protectorate, as a guide for the future benefit of all interested. But we think the complexion of the affair is shaded from the fact that, of all places, the meeting is to be held in the Chinese Theatre! If anything will swerve public opinion in the States toward a policy of interference in Hawaiian affairs, or else of cutting the lucrative commercial ties now binding the two countries in mutual sympathies, it would be symptoms exhibited here that the islands are passing under the control of Chinese influences.

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—I see from this evening's paper that Robt. W. Boyd and Geo. Markham, who were wounded from behind the walls of the Opera House while playing at soldiers in the Palace yard, were charged with treason and committed for trial. From the same paper and various other sources I learn that the Hon. H. A. P. Carter has been trying to spring some sort of a U. S. protectorate on us, the agreement to which he wished to take with him on Friday to Washington. Would it not become a patriotic Reform Government to stop Mr. Carter's passport until it can be shown that there is no treason in his diplomatic aspirations? ANOTHER NOBODY.

AUNTY'S IDENTITY.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—The public can judge if we did not make an honest attempt to keep Mrs. A. in the position she would assume, viz.: that of a respectable lady writer. But after the senseless effusion seen in the P. C. A. this a. m., we retire murmuring, "she, she, it." Barnum's "What is it?" has gone in partnership with a Chinaman. It ain't a man or a woman, it might be Mrs. A. Monkey, or Mrs. A. Long-tailed Rat. MRS. GREEN T.

THE KEALIA HOSPITAL.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—In "Notes from Kealia" in the Hawaiian Gazette, 17th inst., I noticed the following over the signature of "Viator." "An event occurred here recently which will be of interest abroad as well as on these islands, and show what is being done for the laboring class on our plantations. I refer to the opening of the new Japanese hospital at Kealia last week, an institution intended chiefly for people of this nationality." "Viator's" father evidently never had a cherry tree, or else "Viator" was built entirely different from the "Father of his Country," when he intimates that the Japanese hospital at Kealia owes its origin to the benevolence of planters or men of the "Viator" stamp. The hospital was built exclusively from moneys subscribed among the Japanese labor, and is also entirely supported by them, and I doubt very much if one "dime" of "Viator's" money went either to the construction fund or to the much vaunted "celebration" at its opening. By the way, even the laborers' pay—50 or 60 cents per day—failed to be forthcoming for the day of celebration. Men of "Viator's" calibre generally begin their charity at home, and being absent-minded usually forget to go any further. I scorn to doubt "Viator's" veracity, but venture to advise him, if he must write, to confine himself strictly to occurrences of the "Munchausen" style or else cease until he can adhere to FACTS.

THE NEW CARS.

Preparations are making this afternoon for landing the passenger cars of the Oahu Railway and Land Co. from the barkentine W. H. Diamond. It is no slight job, as one car weighs fourteen tons. The cars are not only substantially built but elegant. Their seats run longitudinally and are upholstered with springy cushions covered with woven bamboo. The windows are separated by no greater space than is necessary for framing them, so that the cars are admirably adapted for observation purposes. They have combination springs, air brakes, automatic couplers, etc. As previously noted, one is a second-class, the other a smoking and baggage car combined. Judging by these the first-class cars coming must be beauties. The transportation of the cars from the wharf to the railway is in the able hands of Mr. J. Ouderkirk.

BIGGEST BANQUET ON RECORD.

On August 17th the Municipality of Paris gave a dinner at the Palais de l'Industrie. It was given to the provincial mayors, who numbered 13,000, and the senators, deputies, town councillors and journalists who sat down with them numbered 2,000 more. Ninety-five cooks and one hundred assistants prepared for the dinner, 600 gallons of soup, 125 of sauce, 6000 pounds of fish, 3,400 pounds of beef, 600 ducks, and 1,200 geese. The guests were waited upon by 1000 waiters and 40 butlers. The number of plates used was 80,000, and if piled up they would attain a height of 6000 feet. There were 15,000 bottles of claret, 3,000 of Graves, 1,800 of Madeira, 4,500 of Pomard, and 4,000 of champagne. They were kept cool in six tons of ice. Thirty thousand rolls were baked.
